

Heat Technologies

Heating

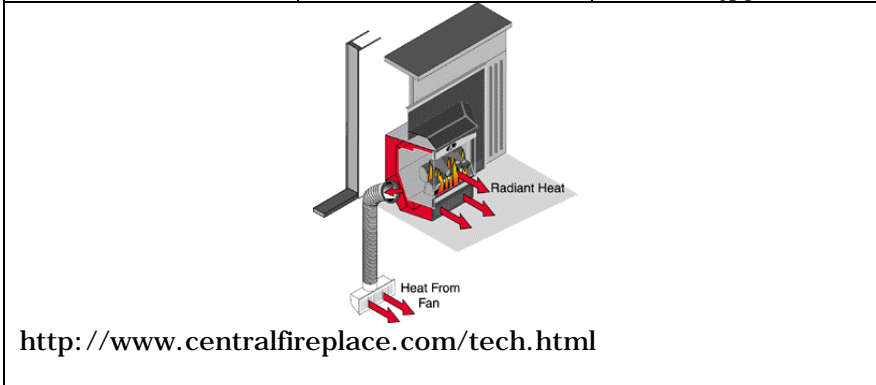

Wood is used for fuel and heat is distributed by radiation.

Different materials are used but distribution is still based on radiant energy.

Systems for distributing heat are developed as well as other methods of producing heat.

Different systems for distributing heat are developed as well as a variety of heat sources. Computers are now used in thermostats to help control the distribution of heat.

http://members.aol.com/dcdcontrol/technic.htm Thermostats monitor and control heat distribution.	http://hearth.com/tarm/mbsolo.html This boiler uses wood or coal to heat water which is then circulated using pipes.	http://www.airconditionerfilters.com/ Electric furnaces come use electricity to produce heat and to fan the heat around the house	http://www.britannica.com/eb/art?id=14610&type=A Solar furnace at Mont Louis, France Laurent—H. Roger-Viollet
---	--	--	--

